

Daniel Pratt. 4/1/24. The logic begins with a prompt for a user input password that determines whether it is correct or not, if it is correct access is granted if not an improper password counter for the session is created and begins, then if the user has not exceeded the max amount of attempts they are re directed to the password entry prompt, if they have exceeded the max attempt counter they are locked from the account.

